Considering a Transaction? Find a Company That Supports Your Priorities.

If you are considering a transaction, one of your largest considerations should be finding a buyer that supports your priorities. This allows for a smooth transition for yourself, your team, customers and community.

If you prioritize investing in your teammates, find a company that will further enhance your teammates' experience, providing continued education opportunities, personal wealth building, career growth and competitive benefits.

If you prioritize community involvement, find a company that supports and encourages teams to be active in their community and allows charitable decisions to remain at the local level. This will avoid needing multiple levels of approval to participate in or donate to local charities or events.

If you prioritize customer experience and a local feel, find a company where national resources are available, but business decisions are made at the local level, which allows for you to continue operating without interruption in servicing your customers.

SUMMARY

For a transaction to be smooth and successful for you, your team and your customers, you must first identify your company's priorities, then find a buyer that will support and encourage those priorities.

At Brown & Brown, we support and encourage investing in our teammates, getting involved in our communities and providing best-in-class customer service.

Benefits of Joining the Brown & Brown Team

We invest in our teammates. Our teammates are offered: on-demand courses within Brown & Brown University, including access to thousands of LinkedIn Learning videos taught by industry leaders; tuition reimbursement and student loan repayment assistance through our Education Assistance Program; networking opportunities through our Peer Partnership Program; personal wealth building and ownership opportunities through our Employee Stock Purchase Plan; competitive benefits programs, prioritizing mental health; and more.

We support and encourage community involvement. Brown & Brown has a long-standing history of community service and we are committed to managing our business and community relationships through our Culture of Caring. We are proud to have established The Brown & Brown Disaster Relief Foundation in 2005 to help teammates and community members who are impacted by natural disasters or emergency hardship. Our decentralized operating model allows our teams to support numerous charitable organizations at the local level to maximize the impact of our contributions. All charitable decisions remain at the local office level.

We minimize rigid rules and bureaucratic interference. Our decentralized sales and service model allows local offices to provide the personalized, dedicated service desired by their customers while leveraging the exceptional capabilities and peace of mind expected from a top brokerage. We empower local teams to make decisions that best support the customers they have already built trust and loyalty with.

CONCLUSION

If you are considering a transaction, but want to ensure you are still able to prioritize your team, community and customers, consider joining our Brown & Brown team.
